

Internal News Release:

By JEK / Posted February 9, 2012

METROPOLIS ENERGY AND QUINTANA INFRASTRUCTURE & DEVELOPMENT CLOSE EQUITY SYNDICATION FOR THE RICHLAND AND STRYKER FACILITIES

HOUSTON, TX, February 9, 2012/Internal Newswire/Metropolis Energy/ — Metropolis Energy (“Metropolis” or “Company”), in conjunction with Quintana Infrastructure & Development, closed on the syndication of approximately $70 million of equity for Richland-Stryker Investment LLC (“RSI”), the jointly held holding company that indirectly owns the Richland and Stryker generation facilities. The 444 MW Richland power station (Defiance, Ohio) and the 20 MW Stryker power station (Stryker, Ohio) were acquired from First Energy Generation Corporation in October 2011. The plants are peaking generation stations and are principally natural gas-fired. These assets are located in the ATSI region of PJM.

The equity syndication of RSI included participations by affiliates of Starwood Global Energy, BlackRock, Frist Capital, Quarry Capital and other individual and family office related interests. Metropolis welcomes these strategic partners to the RSI equity syndicate and looks forward to working with this membership team to enhance current operations and to optimize the financial performance of these highly reliable and efficient generating facilities.

About Metropolis Energy

Metropolis is a privately held, power-sector origination and investment firm founded in 2011 and located in Houston, TX. The Company’s Management Team boasts of collective M&A, Development and Asset Optimization transactions/assignments of over 9,000 MW of domestic and international power assets. Metropolis is an environmentally conscious and responsible investor, insisting upon strict environmental stewardship and a good neighbor policy.

For more information, visit www.metropolis-energy.com/company/.

Contacts:

Metropolis Energy

James Kueser

(832) 549-2111

jkueser@metropolis-energy.com